Before you jump in, reduce friction.

1937 · ARCHIVE FILM

220 companies said no

So I'm building my own job. Before I chase a single client, I'm setting up three things.

WHAT FRICTION IS

Anything between you and a yes.

Someone wants to hire you today. Three things can stop them:

They can't find you	→	1. Profiles
They can't see your work	→	2. Portfolio
You don't know what you sell	→	3. Plan

STEP 01 · PROFILES

Be findable in two places.

01

Not everywhere. One freelance marketplace where your buyers look, plus your LinkedIn.

A A marketplace. Upwork, Fiverr, Contra, or Malt in Europe.

B LinkedIn. Where hiring managers check you anyway.

THE HEADLINE FORMULA

I help [who] get [result] with [skill].

STEP 01 · THE PROMPT

Your CV in, a profile out.

paste into Claude, with your CV

```
Using only the facts in my CV, write my profile for [platform].
A headline under 70 characters: who I help, with what.
An overview of 120 to 150 words that opens with the client's problem, not my job title.
10 skills I can prove.
Don't invent numbers, clients or results. If something is missing, ask me.
```

Then read it out loud. Anything you wouldn't say on a call goes.

STEP 02 · PORTFOLIO

Three pieces of proof.

02

One page. Each piece answers the same three questions.

PROBLEM	What was broken, in one line.
3 STEPS	What you did, in the order you did it.
RESULT	One real number you can show if someone asks.

No work yet? Do one small project for yourself this week and use that.

STEP 02 · THE PROMPT

Projects in, case studies out.

paste with your 3 projects

```
Turn each of my three projects into a short case study
for a one-page portfolio:
the problem, what I did in 3 steps, and the result with the real number I gave you.
80 words each, plain English, first person.
Then suggest the order to show them in, for someone hiring a [role].
```

Publish it on a free page builder: Notion, Canva or Carrd.

STEP 03 · PLAN

Know what you sell.

03

Three offers, then four weeks you can actually do. Mine has to fit around my master's.

WEEK 1	Profiles and portfolio live.
WEEK 2	2 posts. Message 10 people who could buy.
WEEK 3	2 posts. Follow up. One proposal a day.
WEEK 4	Look at what worked. Do more of it.

Example plan. Yours comes from the prompt on the next slide.

STEP 03 · THE PROMPT

A goal in, four weeks out.

paste into the same chat

```
I want to earn [amount] a month from [skill] within [time].
Based on my CV, list 3 offers I could sell, who would buy each one, and what each should cost to start.
Then a 4-week plan: what to post each week (2 posts), who to message, and one thing to finish each week.
Keep it doable alongside [my job or studies].
```

My number: 3,000 euros a month, from anywhere, by week 52.

ONE MORE FRICTION

Don't spend before you earn.

I don't have a tripod. I don't have a mic. Every video so far is my phone.

Phone
The one you have.

Window light
Face it. Free.

~~New camera~~
After the first client.

~~Studio lights~~
After the first client.

Want all three prompts?

COMMENT

FRICTION

and I'll DM you the free guide:

- ✓ the profile, portfolio and plan prompts
- ✓ the setup checklist
- ✓ what to fix when Claude sounds generic

Follow for Week 3: did reducing friction work?